

DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

C. C. POWNING, Editor and Proprietor

THE WATER SUIT

The Journal is pleased to state that there is a reasonable prospect of an amicable adjustment of the Washoe county water troubles. Yesterday was the day fixed by the Court to commence taking testimony in the case, but by request of a large number of the ditch owners the matter was postponed until the 7th of January next, to give the parties an opportunity to consult among themselves, and it possible effect a settlement. Last Friday evening twenty-five or thirty farmers and ditch owners met at the office of the County Clerk and arrived at what, to those present, seemed a fair basis of settlement, and to give further opportunity for consultation the case was postponed. The Journal has not been informed as to the exact basis upon which the proposed settlement is to be made, but is informed that the verified statements of the several ditch owners, on file in the Recorder's office, are to be taken as conclusive of the facts in the case, and that the Court be authorized to enter a decree in accordance with rights of the parties as therein stated. With the stipulation which shall authorize the entering of a decree will be circulated an agreement, by the terms of which the signers thereof agree that when the water in the river is insufficient to supply all the ditches at the same time, that the water shall be divided by time—that is to say, as many ditches as can be filled shall be first filled, and the work of division proceed up the stream from the lower to the higher ditches. The Journal is not sufficiently informed in the matter at present to enter into a lengthy discussion of the proposition, but will hail with joy any reasonable proposition that will put an end to what bids fair to be a long, expensive and unsatisfactory lawsuit—a suit that it pursued to the end may bankrupt half the farmers in the valley.

THE TADPOLE GATES

By order of Senator Stanford, C. P. Huntington, Col. Fred Crocker and W. H. Mills the gates at the Tahoe dam have been closed down, and the winter water will be stored for the benefit of the Truckee river next year. This action insures an abundant supply of water for all milling and farming purposes along the Truckee in 1890, and consequently a year of great prosperity for Reno and Washoe county. We shall now have both Tahoe and Donner to draw from, and all possibility of another dry season is averted. We could and do wish that other sections of Nevada were so fortunately situated as to have the blessings of such great natural reservoirs, but notwithstanding the favorable outlook for a stormy winter we trust there will be no relaxation of effort to store water wherever practicable, so that all the benefit possible may be secured. There is no point to be lost. Nevada and Nevada people must keep on working in the right direction, and in future years never look back upon the past and regret valuable time and opportunities lost.

Another Judicial District

A bill has been introduced in the Senate by Davis, of Minnesota, establishing an additional judicial circuit (the tenth), comprising the districts of Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota and Montana. The usual Court powers are conferred by the bill and the same compensation allowed the Judge and other officers as provided for. The terms of this Circuit Court shall be the same as now provided by law for the terms of the circuits in that district and the following additional terms: Courts shall be held in the district of Minnesota and in the city of Minneapolis on the first Monday of February and the second Monday of September in the year, and a Judge shall be appointed by the President to have the customary jurisdiction.

From New York comes the information that the Whitneys intend to outdo the Mortons in entertaining this winter. They have rebuilt their residence in New York and have given the best decorators of Gotham carte blanche to outline anything ever undertaken in the way of interior decoration. Mrs. Whitney intends to take a hand in the Democratic contest in 1892, and will help push her husband to the front for the Presidency. The Whitneys and the Brices have joined hands against the Cleveland and W. L. Scott combination to secure the Democratic vote three years hence.

There will be but three or four working days of Congress before the Christmas holiday recess. Adjournment until Monday, January 6, will probably be taken on Thursday, the 19th instant, although if Speaker Reed concludes that he can not announce his committee before the reconvening of Congress in January there are many members who will insist that the recess be taken Wednesday, the 18th. No real work of consequence will be done until the committees are announced, as they control the real business of Congress.

The Rule of Law

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—A. Miller and his wife, of San Diego, were some time ago tried and convicted of conspiracy, the husband being sentenced to one year in the county jail and the wife to a fine of $1. An appeal was taken on the ground that the information does not charge an offense, because the man and his wife, being in law one person, no prosecution can be maintained. The Supreme Court, in reviewing the judgment, says that the claim of appellants is a rule of common law, and there is nothing in the code or statutes to indicate any intention of the Legislature to change the rule.

CRONIN'S MURDERERS.

THREE FOR LIFE IMPRISONMENT, AND ONE FOR THREE YEARS.

One of the Prisoners was Found by the Jury to be Not Guilty.

The Conviction of the Murderers of Dr. Cronin.

Special to the Journal.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—2:30 p. m.—The verdict of the jury in the Cronin case is as follows: We, the jury, find the defendant John F. Beggs not guilty. We, the jury, find John Kunze guilty of manslaughter as charged in the indictment, and fix his punishment at imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of three years. We, the jury, find defendants Daniel Coughlin, Patrick O'Sullivan, and Martin Bonnie guilty of murder in the manner and form as charged in the indictment and fix the penalty at imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of their natural lives.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—"What do you think of the verdict?" was asked of Judge McConnell by an Associated Press representative after the adjournment. "Judicially, of course, I can pass no opinion on the verdict," said the Judge. "As an individual, however, I might say I think the verdict is the result, probably, of the objection of some of the jurors to the death penalty on circumstantial evidence. You will probably find Mr. Culver was not the only man upon the jury who was opposed to the hanging of the three principal defendants." The Judge said he felt relieved there had not been a disagreement, although if it became necessary to try the case again he would not have flinched from presiding over the same.

At the jail the four convicted defendants were found out in the corridor with the other inmates, taking the usual exercise before dinner. Kunze seemed to hold himself apart from the other prisoners, and remained in his cell refusing to be comforted. Coughlin and O'Sullivan were at the entrance of the cage discussing the case with a couple of members of Camp 20, who had called to see them. At the approach of the press representatives they quickly lapsed into silence, and the visitors departed. Coughlin, when asked, "Are you disappointed at the verdict," said, "Well, I suppose no man regards a verdict of life imprisonment with any particular enthusiasm, but really gentlemen I must decline to be interviewed."

Coughlin then retired pleasantly, bowing good evening. It was evident to all that to Coughlin at least the verdict was a source of self congratulation. His habitual mood during confinement during the past six months has been one of taciturnity, but this evening's smile illuminated his face, and his step was light and buoyant. In the boys' department, Martin Burke was found walking up and down smoking a cigar. He seemed entirely composed and good natured as he greeted the reporter. "Well, Burke, what do you think of it?" "Oh, I am done saying a word," said the young Irishman. "The Chicago papers have had enough to say about me already, and I don't want to give them any excuse for any more." All efforts to extract comments from Burke on the verdict were in vain. He expressed himself as being delighted to converse on what he termed "social topics," but on "this other business," as he called it, with a jerk of his head towards the court room, he was dumb.

SENATOR STEWART'S RECEPTION.

Grand Reception Given to the Northwestern Association.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—Senator Stewart's reception of the Northwestern Association to-night was an affair which greatly interested the coast people here, and was largely attended. The Senator and Mrs. Stewart have elegant apartments at the Shoreham—Senator Morton's new flat—and while they are prone to complaint for lack of room for the entertainment of their friends, the guests this evening had certainly no criticisms to make. The rooms were crowded with Senators and Representatives, and the popularity of the Senator from Nevada was fully attested to. Remarks were made bearing upon the Northwestern and coast interests, which show that they will be fully protected and advanced during the coming session of Congress, and that Senator Stewart will lead the fight not only in the Senate, but will direct it to a certain extent within propriety in both branches of Congress.

The Flooded Section.

Special to the Journal.

MARTSVILLE, December 17.—All danger from high water in the rules of Sutter county has now passed, as the water has receded several feet and the levees are considered safe where not already broken. Estimates by the largest rancher, whose lands have been covered, place the loss at much less than at first supposed. It is thought that fully fifty per cent. of the seeded ground will grow crops. No mail has yet been sent to Meridian, and communication with the people in Reclamation District No. 70 is still shut off. Several people have been in from that vicinity, and say that several hundred head of live stock have probably been lost.

New York Swindlers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Recorder Smyth this afternoon refused to discharge the electric sugar swindlers, Mrs. Friend, Mrs. Howard and Orin Halstead, on motion of the District Attorney, but gave them permission to withdraw their pleas of guilty.

George P. Thornton, Superintendent of the Perrin Land and Stock company, of Yavapai county, A. T., and member of the Arizona Legislature, is in the city. Mr. Thornton says the rains of California have reached Arizona and that grass is abundant in all the stock-growing regions. The cattle, he states, are in consequence in fine condition.—S. F. Chronicle.

A RAPID CAREER.

A Spendthrift, Forger, Confidence Man and Bigamist.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 14.—The senior member of the firm of Browning & Evans, one of the leading second-hand merchandise firms of Colorado Springs, left this city a few days ago very suddenly, and it is to-day discovered that he left for fear of officers from the East who are on his track for crimes so serious that if he is caught he will probably spend the rest of his life behind prison bars. Thief, swindler, confidence man and bigamist is the startling record of this man, who for a year has occupied a high position here in business circles.

One year ago Browning came here and met a young clerk in a leading dry goods store named Evans. They both had a little money, and becoming fast friends, entered into partnership in the second-hand furniture and hardware business. They were both regarded as honest, upright young business men, and the firm by its enterprise soon came to be looked on as one of the most promising in the city. Browning became very popular in a large circle of friends, especially among the fair sex. He had his wife with him, and they set up housekeeping. But while she was pretty and apparently devoted to him, he spent but little of his time at home.

Things went along smoothly until Thanksgiving day, when Browning told his partner that while in the East he had got into a scrape and had been notified that day that officers were on his track. He thought it better to get out of town at once, and packing up left the city, going to old Mexico. These facts were ascertained by the Bee correspondent to-day, who investigated the matter and ascertained the following story from various sources, the principal one being a letter from the police of Lebanon, Pa., to the Marshal of this city, which was received this morning.

S. Wolfersberger, alias Frank Culby, alias Gerald Newcomb, alias A. S. Browning, is now twenty-three years of age. Two years ago he inherited from his father, a resident of Lebanon, Pa., a fortune of $35,000. Young Wolfersberger was at that time living in his father's home. He invested part of his inheritance in a hat and cap establishment and blew the rest of it in the most approved style. He paid little attention to business and his life for six months was a continual spree. He was handsome, and having plenty of money and willingness to spend it, became immediately popular with the girls of the town, on whom he lavished his wealth.

Eventually he fell in love with Helene Reed, whose father is one of the most generally respected and wealthiest citizens of Lebanon. Miss Reed returned his affection and despite the protests of her father, who wisely objected to so rapid and reckless a son-in-law, they were married. Wolfersberger continued to waste his money, mortgaged his business, borrowed from all his friends, overdraw his bank account, and it is alleged descended to a number of swindling devices to obtain more funds.

He had soon grown tired of his wife, and it becoming too warm for him in Lebanon, he left his wife and mourning creditors one night going to Elmira, N. Y. In that city, under the name of Frank Culby, he courted Miss Edith McLeod, a pretty girl of that city, who fell in love with him and finally was induced to accompany him to Chicago, where he married her. It is alleged that Wolfersberger used questionable means to obtain the funds to carry him first from Elmira to Chicago and from there here. Forgery is hinted at in this connection.

When the gay deceiver and wife No. 2 arrived here no suspicion was held as to the past life of Wolfersberger, or Browning, as he called himself, and they lived here for several months without attracting any particular attention except from the fact that Browning was thought to be too attentive to other women for a married man. Last Spring Miss Edith Marvin, daughter of Judge Marvin, of Freeport, Ill., came to visit friends. When Browning met her in June he seemed to be strongly attracted by her many charms and sadly neglected wife No. 2 in paying attention to Miss Marvin.

In July wife No. 2 left the city for the East suddenly, and it is now divulged that it was because she had become jealous of her gay spouse on account of his devotion to Miss Marvin, and on telling him so a scene resulted and a separation followed. After wife No. 2 left the city Browning became engaged to Miss Marvin, and she had returned home to make preparations for marrying him, when he was forced to depart. It seems Browning had declared to Miss Marvin that he was a bachelor and she believed it, not happening to ascertain to the contrary.

Mr. Reed, father of this bigamist's first wife, learned some weeks ago of Wolfersberger's second marriage and had him traced to Colorado Springs. A friend of Wolfersberger learned this fact also that the irate father-in-law was taking steps to have him arrested through the Lebanon authorities and notified him, which accounts for his hurried departure on Thanksgiving day.

The letter from the Chief of Police of Lebanon, giving information of Wolfersberger's many crimes to Marshal Dana, reached here too late. The bird had flown. It is probable that many more misdeeds of this man will turn up in the next few days. He is now living in Mexico, out of the reach of the law, and is trying to get Miss Marvin to join him, but this will probably now be prevented. The debts and money obtained in the East by swindling methods by Wolfersberger are estimated at about $70,000.

Salt Lake Officers Arrested.

Special to the Journal.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 16.—City Marshal Solomon, County Recorder Cannon, Selectmen Vail, Brig and Hampton, all Mormon officials, were arrested this afternoon. There are six indictments against Solomon, charging him with misappropriating public funds, and one indictment against each of the others charging them with conspiracy.

WORLD'S FAIR MATTERS.

A Bill Agreed Upon By the National Board of Promotion.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—The Washington National Board of Promotion, in charge of the Three Americas' Exposition Movement, have agreed upon a bill which will to-morrow be introduced in both the Senate and House. It provides that the Three Americas' and World's Exposition shall be held at the National Capitol in 1892 in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, and that the President of the United States shall appoint a Governmental board of nine directors to formulate and supervise the execution of the plan for such exposition. The plan provides that several buildings shall be erected for the exhibition of the various arts and industries of the three Americas and of the world; that the building erected as a museum for the three Americas shall remain as a memorial building in commemoration of that great historical event and as a repository of the antiquities and history of the western hemisphere; that the statue of Christopher Columbus be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies on the 12th of October; that the President of the United States, through the Department of State, shall invite the participation of all the nations of the world, and all the States and Territories of the United States, and that the President of the United States shall especially invite the Presidents of the eighteen American sister republics, the King of Italy, the Queen of Spain and the Presidents and reigning sovereigns of all other nations to visit the United States in 1892 and join with him in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of said statue of Christopher Columbus. The issuance of $15,000,000 in bonds is provided for. Nevada's War Claims—California's Claim—Land Courts.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Vice President laid before the Senate the report of the Board of Army Officers on the claims of Nevada and California for money expended during the late war in the equipment of troops. The report was made to the Secretary of War and sent by him to the Senate in response to a resolution of February 29, 1889. Nevada claimed $412,600, of which $8,560 had been paid; the remainder $404,040 is allowed by the Board and $1,134 disallowed. The report on California's claim is very voluminous, and the Board takes occasion to compliment the work of California's troops in the late war. It is shown that the State paid for volunteer service $451,370, on which interest was paid to the amount of $150,546. California spent for military service and equipment $468,978. There is found to be due the State $4,420,892. The reports were ordered printed.

Sensor Walcott introduced a bill providing for land courts to decide private land claims in Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada, Arizona and some other disputed land questions.

The concurrent resolution offered by Ingalls, for a holiday recess from Thursday, December 19th, to Monday, January 6th, was agreed to, and the Senate adjourned. Among the bills reported in the Senate to-day from committee and placed on the calendar, was one allowing the State of California 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of public land sales in that State.

Among the bills introduced and referred was one by Stanford for the relief of manufacturers of wine, for the establishment of a gun factory for finishing heavy ordnance on the Pacific Coast and for fortifications on the Pacific Coast.

A Blessing in Disguise.

Special to the Journal.

BROOK, Cal., Dec. 16.—Previous estimates of the late damage by floods throughout this section are thought to be erroneous. Farmers say that with the exception of the loss in defending their property, the inundation will be of material benefit to the contrary. There is some surprise felt by the officials of the Supreme Court of the United States from the fact that up to the present time nothing has been heard from Judge Brewer, recently appointed Associate Justice to succeed Mr. Matthews. While there is no doubt that he will accept the honor tendered to him he certainly displays remarkable deliberation in not so stating. He is not expected at Washington until after the holiday recess.

THE LAST LAY OF THE MINSTREL

Lew Dockstadter's New York Burnt Cork Show Collapses.

Lew Dockstadter has closed his New York minstrel theater on account of lack of public patronage. His last attraction, entitled "Tallapoosa," a combination of negro minstrelsy and comic opera, failed to prove attractive, and Dockstadter closed the theater after a two night's run of the piece and left for Philadelphia. The Evening Sun predicts this will be the last attempt to run a theater in that city exclusively devoted to burnt cork minstrelsy. It says: "The trouble is not with negro minstrelsy, but with the variations and refinements of it which actors and managers have permitted to appear in place of it. We have no doubt that a burnt cork actor of genius, capable of portraying the humorous and pathetic individualities of the negro accurately, would find that New York was ready to support him."

INSURANCE ASSESSMENT.

The Commercial Cattle for Thirty Dollars a Share.

The San Francisco Chronicle, of Friday,

Considers considerable excitement was caused in insurance circles yesterday by the levying of an assessment of $30 a share on the stock of the Commercial Insurance Company. The stock has been quoted lately at $100, and the announcement came like a thunderbolt to a clear sky. The price fell at once, $75 being asked and only $30 bid. The reason for the assessment is the heavy losses sustained by the company in recent fires on the coast and a desire to avoid impairing the capital stock. Extensive reduction works will be put up on the coast, and a railroad built to the works, which will be erected on the Magdalena or Babagan river.

Great Expectations.

The Silver State says:

Henry Thies sowed about 100 acres of grain on his ranch at Lovelocks a year ago. The ground was dry at the time and it remained so during the winter, spring, summer and fall, up to this week. Now rain enough has fallen to wet the ground, and he expects the seed, which has been in the ground over 11 months, to sprout and produce a good crop, say 45 bushels of wheat to the acre.

A Booming Creek.

The Silver State says:

News has been received here that Martin creek, upon which Pierce's flouring mill is situated, is booming. The stream when high floods the hay ranches near Willow Point, but it has not yet reached that part of Paradise valley for years, though it will probably do so now.

Fat Cattle.

The Silver State, of Saturday last, says: Peter French had 800 head of fat cattle driven here from his ranch near Stein mountain. Last evening 320 head of these cattle were shipped to San Francisco.

Big Mining Sale.

The Tombstone Prospector, of last Monday, says: "The sale of the Farrell group of mines is announced. James Farrell, well known in Tombstone, has sold the group to an English syndicate for $1,500,000, half in cash, balance in stock. Extensive reduction works will be put up on the mines, and a railroad built to the works, which will be erected on the Magdalena or Babagan river."

James Farrell was formerly engaged in mining and stock raising in this State, and lived on the Little Humboldt, in Humboldt county, for several years.

Rare Gems and Bright Jewels.

Richard Herz has just received a most complete stock of diamonds and other gems, watches, rings, pins, chains, bracelets and other articles in the jewelry line suitable for holiday gifts. His display is most brilliant and dazzling. All the ladies express themselves as being delighted with the richness of his display, and are at the same time astonished at the cheapness of many articles that from appearance would be thought priceless.

The primary colors are red, yellow and blue; orange, green, indigo and violet are produced by combinations of these.

In the Cantata, Light is represented as "Mother" of the seven sisters—the colored rays—because when passed through a prism of glass or drops of water, it is resolved into these seven colors. Light is represented as dwelling originally in heaven, but the scene is the earth, where the mother and the seven sisters meet.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The Tascara Times-Review says:

The Board of Trade proposition is all right, provided it treats the silver question, as it should be, as a strictly independent and non-partisan issue. It might as well, however, be a baseball club or debating society, so far as the silver interest is concerned, unless it is made conducive to such practical results as would accrue from the assertion of the bi-partisan voting power of the State on the floor of the two Houses of Congress, as well as in caucus. Congress is the only power that can extricate us from our dilemma, and every local organization should direct its efforts in that direction, and in the manner that will prove the most effectual—that is, by concentrating our political strength upon the one issue and making all others subservient to it, regardless of party platforms, administrative or caucuses. It is the object of the Reno movement, it has the endorsement of this paper, and will receive its most hearty co-operation. The reinstatement of silver in its proper place in the currency of the nation, must be secured before there will be any considerable amount of trade in the State to foster, and the securing of the former should be the primary object of the organization.

It Fades Water Colors.

J. J. Hisey, of Haven's Mount, Eastbourne, writes: "Now that the electric light is being generally introduced in our houses, it may be well to caution those possessing valuable water-color paintings against placing the electric lights in close proximity to their pictures, as I have found, after three years' experience of the electric (incandescent) light in my own home, that so illuminating and sufficiently powerful to cause some of the more delicate pigments to fade to a greater or less degree. Water colors that are safe in diffused daylight are certainly not always so when exposed night after night for many hours to the active white light of electricity close at hand."

A Big Loss of Property—A Man Drowned.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 16.—It is estimated the damage by the recent storm in this vicinity will reach from $100,000 to $200,000. The California Southern railroad will probably lose $25,000. Six bridges have been washed out between Soledad canyon and this place, and there is little prospect of any trains moving before to-morrow night. The Pacific Beach road is badly damaged at Rose canyon, where one thousand feet of road-bed has been destroyed. It will probably be a week before the road can be repaired. The Guaymas road was badly washed out in Chollas valley. The Coronado Belt line and National City road both suffered considerable loss. The race track at Pacific Beach is badly damaged and it is thought the loss will reach $20,000.

O. W. Wilson, Master Mechanic of the Pacific Beach railroad, was drowned yesterday. He started for Pacific Beach, with a motor engine, to ascertain the damage to the road. He left the engine at Rose canyon, where the washout had occurred, and was not seen alive again. His body was found by his wife, buried in the mud.

A Brutal Fight, and Death for Both.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—An Examiner's Battle, Mont, special says G. H. Ward, a carpenter, and John Gallagher, a miner, had a prize fight last night at Crystal Springs. Gallagher engaged Ward to build him a house and after it was finished Ward brought in a bill for extras, which Gallagher disputed. The men agreed to settle the dispute by a fight, London prize rules. Ward knocked Gallagher down 98 times and punished the latter terribly. Gallagher managed to knock Ward down in the 105th round, during him, and in the 105th knocked him senseless. He was taken to his room and this afternoon the physicians pronounced his case hopeless. Gallagher, besides having a broken arm, is also in a dangerous condition.

Tin-Horn Lawyers.

Last Wednesday previous to the trial of Ed Ryan in the Justice Court both the defendant and prosecuting witness were running around trying to find some one with a little court experience and chin music proficiency to attend to their respective sides of the case. One or two tin-horn lawyers might pick up a fair living in Tascara attending to cases in the Justice Court.

HIDDEN GOLD UNEARTHED.

South Carolina Treasure Seekers Make a Find at Flatmouth.

PLATMOUTH, Neb., Dec. 16.—A small fortune in gold dust, which was buried near this city by a man named Henry J. Hopkins in 1860, was unearthed lately after a secret search of many days by two of his surviving heirs, Messrs. A. R. and P. E. Torey, of Charleston, S. C. The search for the buried treasure was conducted so secretly that no one knew the business of these gentlemen in the city until after the gold had been found. When interviewed by the Bee correspondent Mr. A. R. Torey told his story as follows:

"In 1849, when the gold fever of California was raging, my uncle, Henry Hopkins, a wealthy young man about twenty-two years old, was then living with his father's family on a plantation near Charleston, S. C. The family consisted of Silas Hopkins and wife and three children—Henry, Richard and Mary, the latter being my mother. Henry caught the fever and, in company with his Goodell, a neighbor's son, started for California to seek his fortune."

"After having labored hard for eleven years and accumulating a small amount of wealth, early in the Spring of 1860 the two companions, started on their homeward journey. Hopkins had been favored with good fortune, while Goodell, who was a reckless fellow, had been shadowed with misfortune, and had saved barely enough money to carry him to his home in South Carolina. Goodell was very envious of Hopkins' good luck, as is shown by a letter received from Henry a few months after the landed here. Why they halted in this city is not known."

"Shortly after their arrival Goodell fell in with some tough characters and drank freely, and one night while Hopkins was asleep in his tent, attempted to rob and murder him. Hopkins, seeing his danger, determined to hide his treasure until he could evade his companion, and then to return and get it and proceed on his journey. He wrote a letter to his father, stating what he had done, and fearing that he might be murdered for his money, sent a complete description of the spot where the gold was buried; also saying that if he should not return home in a reasonable length of time, to send his brother, Richard, after the hidden treasure. Early in 1861, before the letter had reached its destination, Silas Hopkins and Richard enlisted in the Confederate service. Silas was killed in the early part of the war, and Richard, though seriously wounded, recovered."

"Up to the close of the war, nothing more had been heard of Henry. Supposing his brother to have been murdered, Richard came to this city in 1866 and after a search of three weeks failed to find the hidden treasure. He returned home much discouraged, thinking that Goodell had murdered his brother and found his gold. Goodell did not continue his journey homeward, but returned to California and was killed in a drunken fight two years later."

"At the death of uncle Richard, a short time ago, the letter written to Henry came into my mother's possession and my brother and I concluded to see what we could find out about it. We came to your city last week and worked hard to discover the spot where the gold was buried. We did get discouraged and were just preparing to stop digging when my spade struck a large rock. This gave us new hope, and uncovering the rock which was about two feet square, we raised it up and you can imagine our surprise when we beheld a copper camp kettle containing seven buckskin sacks full of gold dust. We had the gold weighed and it is worth about $7,000, enough to pay us for our trouble."

The gentlemen worked secretly until they had gained possession of the lost treasure, which it is supposed cost their uncle his life, as he has never been heard of since writing the above mentioned letter. They refused to give the location of the find, any farther than to say it was about two miles south of this city on a high cliff overlooking the Missouri river. They seemed to be in a great hurry to get away from town and did not tell of their good luck until a short time before they departed for the East."

A NEW MOTOR.

It is Declared to Be the Best Yet Invented for Street Railways.

Special to the Journal.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 16.—Articles of incorporation of the Cooper Pneumatic Motor Company were filed to-day. William Cooper and George P. Hampton, two practical engineers, have perfected an invention which promises to revolutionize all previous powers in street railway traffic. For many months past their secret has been carefully guarded and the working model has been tested again and again behind locked doors and drawn blinds. After they satisfied themselves a dozen of the best engineers of Minneapolis were invited to see it work. They all pronounced it the most wonderful invention yet discovered for moving street railway trains. The stock is at present limited to $100,000, which is all taken. The new motor, which is wholly pneumatic in action, will begin a practical test January 1st on the Minneapolis and Thirty-first street line. Among those who have examined its practical workings is George W. Cooley, the well-known engineer. He said: "I am fully prepared to say that for street railway purposes the Cooper motor will beat anything I ever saw. I am speaking with some experience for I have examined every motor that has been invented in this country in the last ten years. It is my opinion that it will supercede anything that has been put upon the market. It is so simple and yet so practical. When one sees it he says: 'Why did not some one think of that before?' It is not an imaginative scheme like the Keely motor. It is practical and solid."

WHAT ON EARTH.

In the reason people will not, can not or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by the medical profession and the more expensive and more potent remedies, is giving evidence of world wide superstition and one that is giving rise to a new and dangerous movement. No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work is worth nothing.

NEW TO-DAY.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, so accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings, which cause painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, and the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases, and affects, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by its remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofula more neck from the time she was months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CHAMBERLAIN, N. J.

Will Not Lose Its Value.

The bird's-eye view of Reno

Is a beautiful picture to see,

Which when one half century is past

Still more interesting will be.

If we shall live to see a city here

We will be fond of telling so-and-so,

How little tiny Reno looked

About fifty years ago.

My daughter's is number two and one

But number three is George's son,

Who brings an invitation to all

To give his papa George a call.
